Purpose

This policy provides direction on health care eligibility for those individuals recognized as Allied Veterans under the Veterans Health Care Regulations.

Note: A list of countries allied with Canada during World War II and the Korean War is available in the documents entitled Allied Veterans - World War II and Allied Veterans – Korean War respectively.

Policy

Allied Veteran

1. An Allied Veteran is defined as “... a former member of an Allied Force...”. Veterans Affairs Canada interprets the term “former member” to mean an individual who served in a formal military capacity as an enlisted member of the “armed forces” (i.e. army, navy or air force). Service as a former member of a resistance group cannot be recognized.
2. The provisions of the Veterans Health Care Regulations recognize various types of Allied Veterans depending on when and where the Veteran served, whether the Veteran was domiciled in Canada prior to or after serving in the Allied Force, and whether the Veteran is entitled to a disability pension. This recognition can be broken down into three categories: Allied Veterans with pre-war Canadian domicile, Allied Veterans with post-war Canadian domicile, and supplementary pensioners.

Pre-war Domicile

3. The term “pre-war domicile” is used to describe those World War II or Korean Allied Veterans who were domiciled in Canada at the time of joining the Allied Force or at any time while a member of that Force.

Post-war Domicile

4. The term “post-war domicile” is used to describe those World War II or Korean Allied Veterans who have been domiciled in Canada for a total period of at least 10 years beginning on or after August 15, 1945, for World War II Allied Veterans; and beginning on or after July 27, 1953, for Allied Veterans of the Korean War.

Domiciled in Canada

5. The term “domiciled in Canada” refers to that period of time during which a person made his/her home and ordinarily resided in any part of Canada. This can normally be confirmed using government-issued documents such as an Income Tax Return, a Canada Pension Plan Record of Contributions, etc.

6. A person's domicile in Canada is deemed to be continuous if the person has not been absent from Canada for more than 183 days (consecutive or cumulative) between July 1 of one year and June 30 of the next year.
7. Residence in Newfoundland and Labrador prior to March 31, 1949, (i.e. the date Newfoundland joined Canada) is considered domicile in Canada.

Supplementary Pensioners

8. The term "supplementary pensioner" is used to describe those World War II Veterans of the United Kingdom, Commonwealth or other Allied Forces who satisfy Canadian pre-war domicile criteria and are entitled to a pension in respect of a disability incurred during wartime from either the government of the Allied country for which they served or from Canada.

Recognized Allied Veterans

9. Subject to paragraph 10, eligibility for health care benefits (i.e. treatment and supplementary benefits, Veterans Independence Program services and long-term care) is limited to those Allied Veterans who meet one of the following definitions:

(Refer to the policies entitled Health-related Travel and Costs Associated with Requested Medical Examinations.)

services are not available as insured services under a provincial health care system if they:

- a. satisfy the definition of an income-qualified Veteran, and:

 - ii. an assessment indicates that the provision of these services will assist them to remain self-sufficient at their principal residence, or the provision of that care is necessary for health reasons.
21. An Allied Veteran as described in paragraphs 9(a) to 9(e) is eligible to receive Veterans Independence Program services to the extent that the services are not available as insured services under a provincial health care system if they:
- a. satisfy the definition of an overseas service Veteran, and
 - i. are resident in Canada;
 - ii. have exceptional health needs;
 - iii. have insufficient income to enable them to pay for those services or that care (i.e. the cost of the required service or care reduces their income to an amount below the maximum War Veterans Allowance income factor applicable to them that was in effect on the July 1 preceding the day on which they receive the services or care). Refer to the Business Process entitled Determination and Collection of Accommodation and Meals for sample calculations; and,
 - iv. an assessment indicates that the provision of the Veterans Independence Program services will assist them to remain self-sufficient at their principal residence or the provision of intermediate care is necessary for health reasons.
22. Allied Veterans described in paragraph 21 are required to pay the amount of their assessable income that exceeds the maximum War Veterans Allowance income factor applicable to them toward the cost of the needed Veterans Independence Program service, including intermediate care. Those receiving intermediate care are also required to pay up to the maximum accommodation and meals rate.

Long Term Care Program - Contract Bed

23. Allied Veterans described in paragraphs 9(a) or 9(e) are eligible to receive intermediate care or chronic care in a contract bed when an assessment shows that the care is appropriate to meet their health needs and they are either:

- a. an income-qualified Veteran, or
 - b. an overseas service Veteran.

26. An income-qualified Veteran or an overseas service Veteran who is an Allied Veteran as described in paragraphs 9(b), 9(c) or 9(d) is not eligible to receive care in a contract bed.

Long Term Care Program - Community Bed

normally reside.

Note: Refer to the policy entitled Overseas Service Veterans Who Apply for a Contract Bed for additional information.

29. Allied Veterans described in paragraph 9(f) are eligible to receive financial support toward the cost of intermediate care or chronic care in a community facility, when:
 - a. an assessment shows that the care is appropriate to meet their health needs; and
 - b. they are admitted for the first time to a community facility, on or after November 6, 2003.
30. Lack of bed availability in an approved health care facility does not constitute a basis for consideration for placement in a contract bed for those Allied Veterans described in paragraph 9(f). If the Allied Veteran meets the eligibility requirements for long term care in a community facility, but no bed is immediately available, the Veteran should be referred to community resources, until a bed in a community facility becomes available. An Allied Veteran cannot be placed in a contract bed, unless a specialized level of care is required, and the specialized care cannot adequately be provided in a community facility, other than in a contract bed.
31. Allied Veterans described in paragraphs 9(b), 9(c), or 9(d) are eligible to receive financial support toward the cost of chronic care in a community facility, to the extent that such care is not available as an insured service under a provincial health care system when an assessment shows that the care is appropriate to meet their health needs and they are:

effect on the July 1 preceding the day on which they receive the care). Refer to the Business Process entitled Determination and Collection of Accommodation and Meals for sample calculations.

33. Allied Veterans described in paragraph 31 are required to pay the amount of their assessable income that exceeds the maximum War Veterans Allowance income factor applicable to them toward the cost of the needed chronic care. They are also required to pay up to the maximum accommodation and meals rate (see policy entitled Accommodations and Meals Contribution for more information).
34. Some Allied Veterans of World War II may have more than one gateway to access Long Term Care. In such cases, eligibility under paragraph 29 should be considered first.

Long Term Care - Admission Prior to Confirmation of Eligibility

35. If an Allied Veteran requires immediate admission to a facility and cannot wait for eligibility to be confirmed, the Allied Veteran or, if applicable, a provincial program must pay the long term care costs incurred during the time that entitlement is being adjudicated.
36. If the application is subsequently approved, Veterans Affairs Canada may reimburse the Allied Veteran or, if applicable, provincial program for eligible costs, less accommodation and meals.
37. If the application is subsequently declined, the Allied Veteran or, if applicable, a provincial program will continue to be responsible for the cost of the long term care, including applicable accommodation and meals charges.
